

THE GAZETTE.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 20.

Senator John C. Spooner gave $500 to the fund for Mrs. Logan. Ex-President Hayes gave $850.

On the second page of the Gazette will be found an interesting record of the closing year. It is well worth preserving.

State Treasurer-elect Barshaw is prepared to file his bill. It is for $200,000, and is signed by Senator Sawyer, S. M. Fay, J. H. Porter and S. W. Hollister, of Oshkosh; R. D. Kellogg, of Green Bay, and C. B. Clark, of Neenah.

Senator Evans is very fond of social life. He has reached a period of life where he does not take kindly to protracted labor. The genial, kindly social side of the club life of the senate is very attractive to him. He appears in the supreme court as an advocate, but grows harder and harder each year to get him interested in a new case.

Three ex-presidents, two ex-presidential candidates, a vice-president and a vice-presidential candidate have died within a year and there are two years yet before the next presidential election. — Milwaukee Journal.

Will the Journal be kind enough to name the three ex-presidents who have died within a year? Three ex-presidential candidates have died during the year—General Hancock, February 9, Florio Seymour, February 12, and Samuel J. Tilden August 4.

The opera has become a favorite place in New York for showing off diamonds. The display at the Metropolitan opera house every night is fairly dazzling. The cluster which Mrs. Bradley Martin wears on the corsage of her black gown, says the New York Sun, looks as if it might be the planet Jupiter come down to take a look at this interior world. With the time it appears that opera or, at least, diamonds are no longer fashionable, and white or lavender kid gloves are now an essential part of their toilet.

William T. Sherman, general, and John Sherman, senator, met at the Garfield hospital fair, in Washington, the other night. "How are you enjoying yourself?" inquired the latter, with the air of a martyr. "Splendidly!" exclaimed the general, shaking his brother's shoulder enthusiastically. "Why, John," said he, "I'll bet I've shaken hands and spoken with more people since I came into this room than you have in ten years." "I've no doubt of it," was the dry response. "I shook as many hands and spoke with as many people in the past ten years as you have I wouldn't live two years."

Notwithstanding the foreign anarchists are loud in their declarations that this is not a free government, the tide of foreign immigration is again on the increase. The arrivals for the first eleven months of 1886 were 365,577 as against 314,042 for the same period in 1885. If the December immigration shall prove as great as that of November, the total addition to our population for the year by immigration will reach 400,000. The fact that 400,000 foreigners a year come to this country to better their condition is a most effective answer to the lying assertion that this is a government that oppresses the people.

If the subscription to the fund for Mrs. Logan keep coming in for the next two weeks as they have done since Tuesday, it will reach $100,000 by that time. This is the vigor which should be displayed in establishing funds for the widows of the statesmen who have died poor in the service of the public. Logan could not get rich without speculating, and that he would not do. Other senators have grown rich in the public service, but General Logan never tampered with his influence as a senator, and never connived at himself with any of the jobs that have made others rich. All of this world's goods that he can show after an active public career of more than thirty years, are too modest houses covered with mortgages. It is better to go to the grave with his record for integrity and faithful service, and with the mortgages on his home, than to leave a million behind him and a record which was not recommended.

In a recent article in Bradstreet's Mr. Edward Atkinson gave facts and figures to show that the laborer in the United States who has skill and aptitude can now procure $10 or 100 per cent more for a year's work than he could ten years ago, while a common unskilled laborer enjoys 40 to 50 per cent greater benefit. The Boston Post says that "Mr. Atkinson's figures are not to be questioned. As to his conclusions, they are mostly mathematical, leaving no opportunity for rhetoric or for denial based on individual experience." Both Mr. Atkinson and the Boston Post are free traders, but their testimony in this matter about the workings of this country in need of being oppressed by the protective tariff, have prospered under it beyond measure of any other country. They completely refute the assertions of those traders, often repeated, that the collection of the wage worker has been steadily growing worse in consequence of the tariff.

Probably there is no man in the United States who is nearer Mr. Blaine personal friendship than Senator Sawyer, unless it be either Hale or Frye. When Mr. Sawyer reached home the other day he told the Oshkosh Northwestern that "Mr. Blaine does not desire or expect the nomination for the presidency in 1888, and that the real purpose of his proposed trip to Europe is to avoid the semblance of a candidacy, to be removed from all discussion in connection therewith. Moreover, Senator Sawyer thinks it undesirable a political season that Mr. Blaine should be nominated, which is a fact proof that he has excellent assurance. Mr. Blaine is not a candidate; for candidate probably Mr. Blaine would have no more earnest supporter or fan than the senator from Oregon." As this has been a bad year for newspaper, this piece of news, even at the very last hour of the year, who the only bit of comfort they have had in 1886.

The republicans of Illinois did not do better than to elect the H. E. Washburne to the senate in place of General Logan. His age is not yet 60, and he is in good health, with age as strong as ever, at 70. He is of the oldest men in Illinois, and he is of the best men in the party. His age would be a credit to the party's services in the senate on a bench the state. But probably Mr. Washburne does not want the place, anyway, and will make no contest for it. Such a man should not be contested for. William like Washburne in the state. He would be a credit to the party, and the high compliments of the party, and let that be. But the party will not do that. There are too many politicians in Illinois, and a dozen or more will be anxious for the senatorship, and hundreds will want certain cues to succeed they may grind their own axes. That man, in this case, will not get the seat.

According to the report of Will H. Hornaday, the chief taxidermist of the national museum at Washington, who arrived at Milwaukee Wednesday on his return from a buffalo hunt in the west, it will not be many days before the bones of the extinct animals of North America and his party went west in order to obtain specimens for the Smithsonian Institution. Mr. Hornaday says: "I object of our expedition was to lay stores for the future in buffalo skins, which is sure to come in a year or two at most. We knew, in a general way, that the species was gradually becoming extinct, but not till we are on the ground did we realize that expedition had been made just in nick of time. There are, probably, hundred buffalo in Texas, and not more than sixty in the Yellowstone divide where our hunting was done. So far we could learn, there do not appear to be any at all to the north of that range. A large herd went north in 1883, and never been seen or heard from since. I'll bet I've shaken hands and spoken with more people since I came into this room than you have in ten years." "I've no doubt of it," was the dry response. "I shook as many hands and spoke with as many people in the past ten years as you have I wouldn't live two years."

General Martin Workman Powells the mail square on the head in following, written to a prominent member of the Knights of Labor residing New York. Mr. Powells says: "I course of the Knights of Labor has been from the promptness with which the knowledge of the social element have put themselves forward as a remedy for the ills of the world, and while speaking, plighted at the market and getting the remedy for labor's grievances. Of the men who advocate these prices (of socialism), do not understand it, nor do they care to understand it. They set forth the ideas and corollary impression that the only remedy which labor can hope to secure through reforms are the knife and gun. Men may entertain such ideas they please, but they should not, under the cloak of the Knights of Labor, to promulgate such doctrines and make the order responsible for it. They must not be permitted to add blood and fire and yet proclaim themselves to be the mouthpieces of labor. I have no respect for the man or woman who flouts the sacred flag and advocates the use of the dagger and bullet for 304 days in the year, who on the 305th day deliberately waltz to the polls and vote for the continuance of the system which they denounce. On the creatures who stand up as champions of labor in the presence of thousands of unthinking men and women, who flout the red flag! They are vile to respect and too cowardly to avoid the American flag snatched by the blood of patriots. They disregard every time they go to the polls and vote for monopoly and usury. They are to be trusted."

Due to the sword in Mexico. CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 20.—A dispatch from Tuesday between Prince Austin, Imperial and General Canales, both of whom are members of the Jockey club, the weapons used were swords. The prince would have the advantage, but he did not do so. He took place in the San Lorenzo school of artillery, and he had the highest school training. The price is well known in Washington society.

Charlotte Seventy-Seven Years Old. LONDON, Dec. 20.—Mr. Charlotte, an Englishman who came here last June to embark in the cattle business, and who was flooded out of his entire fortune—£75,000—by cattle sharpers, committed suicide by shooting himself at the Hot Springs hotel Wednesday.

Rejected Roman Catholic Javore. SALT, Dec. 20.—Another batch of prisoners charged with resisting bullfight in the charge of their duty at Woodford were arraigned for trial in the Sigeo assizes Wednesday. All Roman Catholic jurors were rejected, in spite of the protest of counsel for the prisoners, who threatened to let the court.

Followed by Cattle Sharpers. LAS VEGAS, N. M., Dec. 20.—Capt. Surr, an Englishman who came here last June to embark in the cattle business, and who was flooded out of his entire fortune—£75,000—by cattle sharpers, committed suicide by shooting himself at the Hot Springs hotel Wednesday.

AFTER DINNER VIEWS.

OF A NUMBER OF OUR NATIONAL LAW-MAKERS.

On Subjects as Varied as the Positions Taken—Extracts from Congressmen's Speeches at a Boston Banquet—An Enthusiastic District Attorney Tackles the Tariff Problem.

Boston, Dec. 20.—Senators Morgan, of Alabama; East, of Louisiana; Hear and Davis, of Massachusetts; Hale, of Maine, and Representatives, Ransom, Taylor, Carter, Morrow, Herbert, Hepburn, Long and Collins were guests of the Merchants' association of Boston Wednesday, together with a number of other politicians of note. During the day they were taken to the principal points of interest, and also called upon the city and state officials, after which there was a reception in their honor at the Hotel Vendome. The reception was followed by a sumptuous banquet in the grand dining hall of the hotel. About 300 guests sat down. William B. Wood presided, and among the guests were many of the most prominent citizens of the state.

After the banquet Governor Robinson arose and made a brief and humorous speech. Senator Morgan then spoke to the question, "Should we continue the national bank system or repeal it?" He said: "I hope the time may never come when a man could be permitted to draw money from the treasury on a bill of exchange, either foreign or domestic, which he offers for sale or discount. It will never do to trust the mother bank—the United States treasury—with the power of a bank of discount on the purchase or sale of exchange. Let national banks do this branch of business on money issued by and redeemable to the United States. Our duty appears clear to preserve our banking system. Whether the proposition of money supply to be issued through them is to be greater or less than now should be left to the test of experience. * * * Let us in our dealings with silver and gold give to each a fair opportunity to assert its superiority as a medium to be used for the purpose of redemption when the time for redemption comes. In issuing coin certificates to retire legal tenders and national bank notes at the rate of $2 of paper for $1 of coin deposited, the government would be making a bank that it is now, when it has outstanding $245,000,000 in legal tender notes, and $228,675,000 in national bank notes, which it is bound to redeem on demand. It will be a safer bank than it is now, when the reserve is only $181,000,000 in gold with which to redeem $274,675,000 in its paper promises, to say nothing of the bonds we owe."

An address of welcome was next made by Mayor O'Brien. The toast, "The United States," was responded to by Hon. George N. Starnes, United States district attorney. He declared that one of the most important matters demanding consideration was the effect of excessive and unnecessary tariffs. He declared that if the country's trade were free we could sell furs to the Laplanders and antiquities to the Lazarus-keepers of Rome, and could equip sailing-vessels on the Jordan. High taxation was the most skillful device yet invented for robbing the laborer.

A letter was read from Senator Sherman, expressing regret at his inability to be present, and offering some suggestions in regard to the national banking system. He thought a remedy for existing defects had been recommended by the present controller of the currency and his predecessors, Messrs. Cannon and Knox, and the responsibility of carrying their proposals into effect with Congress.

Senator Hale submitted some brief but pointed remarks upon the defenses of our coinage. He did not consider himself an alarmist, yet he regarded it as a possibility, but a probability that trouble would grow out of our weakness in this respect. We were constantly in danger of complications arising from our merchant marines in Spanish ports. The completion of the Panama canal would also raise new questions with which we were utterly unprepared to deal safely.

Senator East, of Louisiana, was the next speaker. He supposed the people he represented were considering nothing so important as the tariff. He declared that his ideas on silver and tariff reform. He said the taxing power of the government was paralyzed because it had endeavored to foster too many things. While he was in favor of a revision of the tariff, he did not believe it possible to make any serious changes in the present system, yet he wanted to let his hearers know he believed they were making a mistake in opposing tariff reform.

Representative Hepburn, Taylor and Morrow made brief addresses, after which the company dispersed.

St. John's, N. B., Dec. 20.—The two-masted steamer Sir John, which sailed Tuesday night at 10:30, was two hours later burned just outside the harbor. The first news was brought in by a passing schooner which saw her on fire. Searching parties started out and Wednesday morning found the crew of twenty men huddled together on the snow on the rocks at Black point. Their clothes were frozen to their bodies and they were suffering terribly. They were brought to shore by a tugboat. It was found that two were so badly burned, including Capt. Purdy, the commander, that they can not live. The steward was drowned.

Booth and Churchill. LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Standard says Sir Michael Russell, lately so desirous of returning to the leadership of the house of commons, but is anxious to successfully terminate his dealings with Ireland.

Phenomena To Be Keen for Suspicion. PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.—An infant child of Mrs. Mary Hart, of 2015 Locust street, died Monday night. Mrs. Hart has lost twelve children in her life, all at the age of but a few days. The coroner having learned this fact has issued an inquest upon the body of the infant. The officials consider the case a very suspicious one.

Tien Fall Down the Hills. LONDON, Dec. 20.—There are rumors that another divorce suit has been begun which will totally eclipse the Colin Campbell suit.

Mothers, always use Dr. Sath Arnold's Soothing and Quieting Cordial for children. A mild safe tonic. 25c.

Old and reliable Medicines are the best to depend upon. Acker's Blood Elix. has been prescribed for years for all impurities of the blood. It cures all forms of Scrophulous, Syphilis or Mercurial diseases. It is invaluable. For Rheumatism, has no equal. Prentice & Erben, opp. postoffice.

RASHLY IMPORTUNATE.

CHRISTMAS AT BOSTON SADDENED BY A DOUBLE SUICIDE.

In Which the Victims Were Two Young and Beautiful Girls Who Had Few Friends—Unwilling Efforts of One of Them to Save Her Own and Her Friend's Lives.

Boston, Dec. 20.—The last sad act of one of the most sensational tragedies ever enacted in this city occurred Wednesday morning at Mr. Hope's conservatory, when a double suicide was committed by two young and pretty women who were lowered into a double grave. The story of the death of these two women is a tragic one. Neither had seen 20 years, yet both had found that life was not worth living and had to each other's company deliberately hidden away to the work on what would be the happiest day in the year—Christmas. Sadie Bigelow and Lizzie Hart were respectively 18 and 19 years of age. The former was a slender, stylish figure. The girls were born in St. Johns, N. B. Two or three years ago they came here and secured situations at small salaries as saleswomen in the store of Jordan, Marsh & Co. No ill word was ever breathed against them.

Some time after coming to Boston Miss Hart married a Boston man of respectable connections, whose name is not given. The marriage proved an unhappy one and the couple separated, the wife returning to live with Miss Bigelow. Last fall they heard of an opportunity to better their condition in New York and going there they got work at the dry goods store of Simpson, Crawford & Simpson. The situation proved only temporary. Two weeks ago the girls returned to Boston. They were unable to get work and they soon became utterly discouraged. Among their few friends here were two young men of good character named Henry Villard and Richard Reynolds. It is said that these young men had offered the girls pecuniary aid but the latter were too proud to accept it. On Christmas afternoon the young men treated the girls to a dinner at Villard's restaurant. After dinner they repaired to Villard's rooms where a telegram was found announcing the death of Miss Bigelow's mother. The young men escorted the girls to their homes and on the way a quarrel arose between Villard and Miss Hart about some trifling matter which the former had recently shown to some other woman. The party separated in ill-humor, the men returning to Villard's quarters where Reynolds was to sleep.

At 1 o'clock Villard was aroused by a knock at his door, and on opening it he found Miss Hart in an exhausted condition and unable to say that she and her friend had taken "rough-on-rats." The girl was laid on the bed, a doctor summoned and antidotes were applied, but too late, for, after suffering agonies for six hours, she died. Before dying, on being asked what had induced her to poison herself, she said: "Lizzie was so sorry that her mother died that she wanted to die too. But I would not let her die out on me, so I took the poison. I love her more than my life." She also said that they had determined in the home-car to commit suicide. They got off the car, bought two boxes of "rough-on-rats," went home and took the poison in water. Lizzie felt the effects first and lay down to die. Sadie then repeated her act and started out for help. She took a cab for Villard's rooms first, stopping at the corner where she found a messenger to send a doctor to assist Miss Hart. The messenger thought she was drunk and did not obey. On going to the girls' lodging-house the young men found the half-naked body of Lizzie Hart stretched out on the rumpled bed, cold in death. It is stated that an autopsy held Tuesday showed that Miss Bigelow was encephalic. Medical Examiner Draper, however, was soon at midnight and refused to disclose the results of the examination.

Killed His 5-Year-Old Brother. BOSTON, Dec. 20.—Clark B. Woods, an engineer, living at 1 Stannford place, kept a loaded revolver in the basement of his sleeping-room for his wife's protection when he was absent. Wednesday forenoon his 19-year-old son Edward found the weapon and proposed to his 5-year-old brother Willie that they play Indian. During their sport Edward shot at Willie. "Let me play like Willie," "All right," replied his brother, and Edward cocked the revolver, placed the muzzle against his brother's forehead and pulled the trigger. Willie fell dead and Edward, crying and weeping, rushed into the arms of his mother, who had just appeared on the scene, the smoking revolver in his hand.

Morley Discovers Ireland. LONDON, Dec. 20.—Mr. John Morley writes an article in reply to Dicey's book on Ireland, and argues that the Irish question is not a theorem, but a problem. It is not a matter, he says, of proving a theorem, but of curing a malady. If Ireland is too mischievous to be tolerated, so is everything else that has been proposed as a solution of the Irish question. To establish Ireland a crown colony would be disastrous; to grant an Irish representative body would be disastrous. A provincial legislature, after the model of Ontario or Quebec, would be worse than a repeal of the union, while local government would cure nothing, but disturb everybody.

GES. LOGAN'S SUDDEN DEATH. A great shock to the nation. Few knew that he was even indisposed when the news of his death flashed over the wires and thousands of people stood aghast at the sudden change from health and vigor to cold and silent death. For the past 25 years there has been no man more constantly before the public than General John A. Logan. Through all his career he has been noted for his fearlessness and purity of character, both in public and private life. Loved by friends and respected by enemies he will be missed by all.

His death adds another to the long list of victims to sudden and acute rheumatism. Probably no disease is so common as rheumatism, none is more sudden or dangerous, and there is certainly none which so completely baffles medical skill.

Only one remedy has yet been discovered which is a sure and safe cure for rheumatism and its twin disease, neuralgia, and that is Athioporus. In thousands of cases Athioporus has proved a quick and certain cure for these diseases. In connection with Athioporus Pills it has never yet failed to speedily effect a cure.

In all probability many deaths attributed to heart disease are caused by these terrible diseases, which are far more dangerous than is generally supposed.

Rheumatism, neuralgia, and heart trouble are extremely dangerous, for it is liable at any moment to go to the heart and cause instant death. Why trifle with a disease so fatal when a certain cure can be obtained of any druggist? Every druggist should keep Athioporus and Athioporus Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athioporus Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (satisfaction guaranteed) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athioporus and $2.00 for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, etc., Athioporus Pills are unequalled.
